General Information

Overview

Business computing is central to success in today's dynamic digital economy, where organisations rely on data-driven decision-making and emerging technologies to remain competitive. This unit explores the application of business computing across diverse domains to address complex challenges and deliver effective solutions. You will investigate how technology supports business processes, improves efficiency, and fosters innovation in areas such as customer engagement, operations, and strategic planning. The unit emphasises the relationship between information systems and organisational practice, preparing you for your future career. On completion of this unit, you will have a sound knowledge of key concepts and terminology in hardware, software, data storage, and communication, while also developing skills in report writing and idea formulation.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Student Unit & Teaching Evaluation

Lecture and tutorial materials are not current.

Recommendation

Learning resources need to be updated to make them more contemporary, incorporating emerging technologies (like Gen AI).

Feedback from Unit Coordinator Reflection / Observation

Feedback

Take Home Exam may not be suitable as proliferation of GenAI has increased in recent years.

Recommendation

The Take Home Exam needs to be replaced with another suitable assessment.
