General Information

Overview

This unit critically examines the governance and managerial aspects of cybersecurity in a business organisation. Building on existing knowledge of information and communication technologies, you will critically explore governance and management issues relevant to cybersecurity in organisational contexts. Through the analysis of real-world case studies, you will develop cybersecurity risk management strategies to support business objectives while considering legal and ethical obligations. As a result, you will gain the knowledge and professional capabilities to contribute effectively to cybersecurity governance and management in accordance with standards set by governments, professional bodies, and industry.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Unit coordinator's reflection

The current content does not clearly emphasise awareness, culture, and human factors in information security.

Recommendation

Incorporate a dedicated lecture topic that focuses on fostering a strong security culture and promoting human-centred approaches to security.

Feedback from Teaching team's reflection

Feedback

Expand the lecture content and tutorials to cover emerging technologies such as privacy-enhancing technologies and threat intelligence practices.

Recommendation

While advanced concepts, such as the Zero Trust model, are included, there remains scope to integrate more emerging topics and case studies.
