General Information

Overview

This unit equips you with the skills and knowledge necessary to design enterprise-level networks utilising the latest onpremises, wireless, and cloud networking technologies. It also provides you with the ability to gather business and technical requirements, as well as to justify the selection of network technologies when there are conflicting requirements, such as cost, performance, security, and business goals. The unit includes the application of industrygrade tools and techniques in network design, deployment, and management, including automation, remote access, high availability, testing, and documentation.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Students asked for more useful feedback to their assignments.

Recommendation

Update the marking guidelines (e.g. include samples of common feedback) to support the markers in providing more constructive feedback.

The unit has provided a good understanding of cloud computing, which will be helpful for my future endeavours as an IT professional.

Recommendation

Students have acknowledged and commended the introduction of cloud computing. As cloud computing becomes mainstream nowadays, future teaching materials should include more of the latest cloud computing technologies.
