General Information

Overview

In a pluralist society, criminal justice policy is heavily influenced by public perception of crime and in particular fear of crime. In this unit you will explore the media's role in constructing an image of crime and critique the ways in which forms of power control this process. You will discuss different representations of crime from the early print news media through to the growth of social media and the rise of 'fake news'. This unit discusses the forms of media regulation that seek to govern the way truth is presented particularly within news media. You will apply this knowledge by developing an organisational media response to a complex issue.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE

Some of the assessment deadlines were clustered closely together, which added pressure to students workload.

Recommendation

Alter the assessment submission deadlines to ensure that they are more evenly spaced during the term.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

Students suggested restructuring the workbook assessment, so it is submitted in one part rather than two parts.

Recommendation

Investigate the feasibility of collapsing the workbook part one and part two assessments into a single assessment submission.

Feedback from SUTE, student communication

Feedback

Students found the Unit content interesting and engaging.

Recommendation

Maintain current and contemporary Unit content in order to remain interesting and engaging for students.
