General Information

Overview

The accurate diagnosis of cardiac conditions requires comprehensive knowledge of cardiac pathophysiology, and the outcomes of a variety of cardiovascular assessment procedures. In this unit you will be introduced to cardiac assessment within the catheterisation laboratory. You will learn how to interpret a 12-lead electrocardiogram (ECG), and how to assess cardiac structure and function by performing a two-dimensional echocardiographic examination. Within the ethical framework of best practice, you will examine simulated case-based clinical information. You will explore the outcomes of cardiac diagnostic procedures, formulate differential diagnoses and patient management strategies for a variety of common cardiovascular pathologies. Attendance at practical activities is a requirement of this unit.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE

Students found the cardiac catheterization lectures difficult to follow due to the extensive verbal content, sparse slide information, and lengthy duration.

Recommendation

The cardiac catheterisation lectures should be reviewed with a focus on highlighting the important information on the lecture slides and presenting information in a concise way.

The ECQ quiz had many images that took time to analyse making it difficult to complete the task in the required time frame.

Recommendation

The format and timing of the ECG quiz should be reviewed. Students will continue to be reminded to complete the online quiz on campus to ensure adequate computer speed to access the images in a timely manner.

Feedback from My Experience

Feedback

Feedback from tutors in laboratory sessions did not consistently offer clear guidance on areas for improvement.

Recommendation

Resources should be provided to tutors to enhance their feedback provisions.
