General Information

Overview

Sustainability through Active Citizenship focuses on strategies and processes that educators can use to achieve the stated goal of the Melbourne Declaration of supporting young Australians to develop as active, informed citizens. Students explore issues related to Citizenship Education within the context of multicultural society and the lived experience of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and identify pedagogical practices for modelling democratic process in classroom settings. They develop understanding of sustainability as an issue involving values education and apply democratic and participatory processes to enact a group decision-making and planning task related to action for sustainable futures. Individually, students reflect on the relevance of the strategies and processes for use in primary school classrooms in terms of their potential for educating learners to achieve the goal of active, informed citizenship and to value participation in communities and groups for creating sustainable futures.

Assessment Tasks

1 Podcast

Assessment Type

Practical Assessment

Task Description

For this assessment, you will need to create a podcast of no longer than 10 minutes using Audacity (or another MP3 tool). Instructions on how to download Audacity and use this free online program will be on the Unit Moodle site. A national radio station runs a regular session called 'Education Views Today'. They have asked you to record a response to the question: What is the best way to teach civics and citizenship in primary schools in an effort to achieve the Alice Springs (Mparntwe) Declaration's goal that all Australian students should be active and informed members of their local and global communities?

Your response should present a persuasive and concise argument, based on research, evaluating past and present approaches to pedagogy, classroom practice and/or whole-school initiatives.

Your response should also demonstrate your understanding of the experiences of citizenship for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and how concepts of citizenship and approaches to civics and citizenship education could marginalise cultural minorities.

In addition to the podcast, you will need to upload an annotated bibliography of the reference material used to inform your presentation. Examples of annotated bibliographies will be provided on the Unit Moodle site.

Assessment Due Date

Vacation Week Tuesday (9 Apr 2024) 11:55 pm AEST

2 Sustainability Action Plan

Assessment Type

Group Work

Task Description

In groups of approximately 10, you will use democratic process to develop a sustainability action plan that could be enacted in a regional community, a school or other specific locality.

Your group must document rules and procedures for managing conflict, reaching consensus and making decisions that show consideration of the perspectives of all members and make provision for their active involvement in the planning process. In addition, each group must document the processes and literature used to develop their plan.

Each group member will be asked to complete a short peer assessment (approximately 50 words per person) assessing each of the other group members in terms of their participation and demonstration of active citizenship.

Each group member will also write a reflection (no more than 1400 words) identifying how the processes used in this assessment might be effective in developing active citizenship and positive attitudes to sustainability in primary classrooms.

Each group member will therefore submit:

- a full list of group members including names and student numbers
- a copy of their group's rules and procedures
- a copy of their group's sustainability action plan (including documented evidence of the research and processes used)
- peer assessments of each of the other group members
- a reflection on how knowledge learned and processes used in this assessment might be effective in primary classrooms to develop active citizenship and positive attitudes towards sustainability.

Although this is a group assessment, individual grades will be awarded.

Assessment Due Date

Review/Exam Week Monday (3 June 2024) 11:55 pm AEST

Return Date to Students

Feedback on this final assessment response will be provided following moderation and prior to the Date of Certification of Grades for the term.

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre \(ALC\) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest

If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help

If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work

Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
