General Information

Overview

This unit delves into contemporary research in education, emphasizing the use of critical reflection and action research to enhance teaching practices in one of your approved discipline teaching areas (Secondary) or in the English specialization (Primary and Early Childhood). You will engage with relevant literature and use generative AI tools to identify and synthesize current research developing insights into core educational content. These insights will inform your teaching practice, and you will be required to critically reflect on their impact. Additionally, you will design and pitch a research proposal focused on improving student learning outcomes in your discipline teaching area or English specialization within a school context. This process will build your research and presentation skills, while also requiring you to explore ethical considerations in data collection, analysis and interpretation. You will learn how to professionally share your research with colleagues, parents, carers and students, contributing to the broader educative process.
