HLTH12028 Health Promotion Strategies

Term 1 - 2026

Profile information current as at 31/08/2026 12:44 pm

All details in this unit profile for HLTH12028 have been officially approved by CQUniversity and represent a learning partnership between the University and you (our student). The information will not be changed unless absolutely necessary and any change will be clearly indicated by an approved correction included in the profile.

General Information

Overview

This unit builds on the student's understanding of health promotion by focusing on best practice strategies. These strategies will cover a range of circumstances and settings, including brief individual interventions to the development of national health promotion policy. It is recognised that effective health promotion initiatives generally use a combination of strategies and skills that are founded on theory and research.

Assessment Grading

This is a graded unit: your overall grade will be calculated from the marks or grades for each assessment task, based on the relative weightings shown in the table above. You must obtain an overall mark for the unit of at least 50%, or an overall grade of 'pass' in order to pass the unit. If any 'pass/fail' tasks are shown in the table above they must also be completed successfully ('pass' grade). You must also meet any minimum mark requirements specified for a particular assessment task, as detailed in the 'assessment task' section (note that in some instances, the minimum mark for a task may be greater than 50%). Consult the University's Grades and Results Policy for more details of interim results and final grades.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Student feedback

Feedback

More flexible timetabling of online classes to encourage higher attendance.

Recommendation

As many students are out on placement during T2, a more flexible rolling schedule of online classes will be added to help students attend more of the live sessions.

Feedback

Students also identified areas for improvement, particularly around the clarity of assessment expectations, and the timing of Moodle coursework across the term.

Recommendation

Based on this feedback, improvements will be introduced for the next offering of the unit, including: Assessment instructions and marking criteria will be refined to provide clearer expectations. This includes annotated exemplars, improved scaffolding, and more explicit explanations of what constitutes higher-level responses. Improved pacing of workload: Weekly Moodle content and assessment timelines will be reviewed to ensure a more even distribution of workload and to reduce pressure points later in the term.

Unit Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. Evaluate the principles underlying best practice in health promotion in relation to strategies
2. Distinguish between various health promotion strategies
3. Locate, critically evaluate and utilise information in the development of effective health promotion strategies
4. Recommend culturally appropriate strategies to be applied in a variety of settings, including schools, workplaces, health service organisations and entire communities
5. Argue the most appropriate strategy, or mix of strategies, for addressing a health related issue, including mental, emotional, social or physical health issues
6. Determine the most appropriate methods, policies and resources to support the planning and implementation of health promotion strategies.
