General Information

Overview

One of the most challenging tasks confronted by university graduates working in human resources is the management of conflict and effective practice of negotiation. Accordingly, as a graduate, you will required some fundamental skills from the very start of your career. These include the ability to apply basic psychological principles when dealing with people, the ability to prepare and conduct effective negotiations, and the ability find productive solutions in conflict situations. This unit is designed to provide you with the opportunity to build upon theory from earlier units, and to acquire conflict resolution skills that will be applicable in the workplace.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator Reflection

Update some assessment content

Recommendation

Some of the assessment items have been using similar case studies and scenarios for several terms. While the assessment task itself does not need to be changed, the content of the assessment task could be refreshed.

Feedback

Monitor student responses to assessment items to ensure academic integrity is being maintained in terms of generative AI.

Recommendation

Keep a close eye on the way students may be using AI to assist with their assignments, ensuring that academic integrity is being maintained with the way the assessment tasks are currently structured.
