General Information

Overview

Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) examines the theory and application of procedures for the resolution of disputes as an alternative to a judicial process. In this unit you will examine ADR methods such as negotiation, mediation, conciliation and arbitration and theoretical developments such as Collaborative Law. You will develop basic skills in listening, negotiation and mediation. You will also explore how to design ADR approaches suitable to help resolve client disputes, quickly, at minimal cost and consistent with the principles of access to justice.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Student Evaluations and Unit Coordinator Self-Reflection

Review scheduling of unit content

Recommendation

Consider positive and negative impacts of the unit's intensive scheduling. Check alignment of learning and assessment schedules with other units.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator Self-Reflection

Maintain currency of unit content

Recommendation

2024 is a transitional year for Resolving Civil Disputes, due to a new textbook being published mid-year and ongoing changes in practice. Unit content will require especially close attention to maintain currency.

Feedback from Peer Review

Consider adjacent aspects of professional practice

Recommendation

As the unit transitions into the LLB core in 2026, there is an opportunity to consider the intersection between resolving civil disputes and other core skills and knowledge for lawyers and law students.
