MEDI12006 Imaging Procedures 2

Term 2 - 2027

Profile information current as at 09/09/2026 05:52 am

All details in this unit profile for MEDI12006 have been officially approved by CQUniversity and represent a learning partnership between the University and you (our student). The information will not be changed unless absolutely necessary and any change will be clearly indicated by an approved correction included in the profile.

General Information

Overview

Imaging Procedures 2 will build upon your foundation knowledge and skills developed in Imaging Procedures 1. On completion of this unit, you will be able to perform routine radiographic examinations of all regions of the body on an ambulant adult. You will demonstrate high levels of patient care and radiation safety. You will expand your image evaluation skills to encompass all regions of the body enabling you to assess radiographs for quality and to determine if an image is diagnostic. You will apply your understanding of the relationship between the beam, patient and image receptor and how it impacts on image appearance to determine strategies to improve imaging outcomes for all regions of the body. You will develop your skills as a reflective practitioner, to gain greater self-awareness and make progress toward a self-directed continued professional development habit. You will be introduced to additional areas of radiographic practice, including mammography, bone mineral densitometry and dental imaging. This unit includes a large element of clinical simulation to enhance readiness for clinical placement.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback

New lectures on projections were well received and supported learning.

Recommendation

Continue to use a lecture format that emphasises the link between patient position and image appearance.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator observation

Feedback

The written image evaluation portfolio assessment task does not reflect the immediate verbal assessments that students are expected to provide when in the clinical setting.

Recommendation

Investigate the feasibility of changing the written image evaluation portfolio assessment task into an oral assessment of image evaluation.
