Profile information current as at 04/09/2026 05:54 pm

All details in this unit profile for NUTR12001 have been officially approved by CQUniversity and represent a learning partnership between the University and you (our student). The information will not be changed unless absolutely necessary and any change will be clearly indicated by an approved correction included in the profile.

General Information

Overview

This unit will introduce students to the role of food, nutrients and dietary constituents in human health and disease. Your learning will encompass the range of ecological, physiological, and behavioural factors that influence food composition and human food intakes and behaviours. You will learn about the food and nutrition requirements of different individuals and population groups. You will develop an understanding of scientific evidence that underpins dietary requirements and recommendations and skills to identify dietary misinformation.

Offerings For Term 1 - 2027

- Online

Attendance Requirements

All on-campus students are expected to attend scheduled classes – in some units, these classes are identified as a mandatory (pass/fail) component and attendance is compulsory. International students, on a student visa, must maintain a full time study load and meet both attendance and academic progress requirements in each study period (satisfactory attendance for International students is defined as maintaining at least an 80% attendance record).

Website

This unit has a website, within the Moodle system, which is available two weeks before the start of term. It is important that you visit your Moodle site throughout the term. Please visit Moodle for more information.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE student comments

Feedback

Additional direction needed for written assessment tasks.

Recommendation

Consider adopting alternative assessment formats that scaffold students through the required processes, align with key learning outcomes, and demonstrate the relevance of the tasks.

Feedback from Informal verbal student feedback

Feedback

Students enjoyed the weekly learning booklets, short lectures and real-life examples.

Recommendation

Continue the use of weekly booklets accompanied by short lecture recordings, as these provide structure and support student learning. It is further recommended that additional real-life examples be incorporated to strengthen the application of theoretical concepts and enhance perceived relevance of the content.
