General Information

Overview

The threat of terrorism is a high priority for state and federal law enforcement, emergency response organisations and emergency medical response services in Australia. This unit will provide you with foundational knowledge of the definition of terrorism and the terrorism threat landscape in Australia. You will explore terrorist organisations, ideologies, capabilities, and attack vectors, as well as the complexity of contemporary layered attack methodologies used by these groups. Additionally, you will analyse and discuss Australian open-source federal and state policies related to the response, management, and recovery from terrorist attacks. Finally, you will be introduced to the intersection of operationalised medical and emergency response.

Assessment Tasks

1 Evaluating Response and Preparedness for Terrorism and Mass Violence events.

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Objective: This assessment requires you to critically analyse your organisation's readiness and response mechanisms in the context of terrorism and intentional mass violence events, focusing on your state of origin, the current threat and most likely attack methodology.

This assessment has three parts.

Part 1: Response Analysis.

Task description: Review the response arrangements for your state in the event of ongoing terrorism or intentional mass violence event.

Discuss: What are your organisation's roles and responsibilities during the acute phase of such an event?

Discuss: Do these roles and responsibilities effectively address the therapeutic vacuum in these situations?

Part 2: Terrorism Organisations Analysis

Task description: Identify three terrorist organisations from the Australian National Security Database.

Provide a brief synopsis of each selected group's driving ideologies.

Cross-reference these groups with the Global Terrorism Database \(GTD\) to determine their most common attack modality.

Part 3: Historical Attack Modalities and Organisational Preparedness

Task description: Using the Global Terrorism Database, identify the three most common historical attack modalities in your country of origin.

Assess whether your organisation is adequately resourced to address the injury profiles common to these attack modalities based on your current operational and tactical medicine knowledge.

Conclusion:

Task description: Conclude your essay by evaluating your organisation's capacity to address the therapeutic vacuum created by a terrorist attack in your country of origin. This should consider historical and favoured attack modalities of currently active terrorist groups.

Note: Your assessment should be grounded in relevant data from the databases provided in the task descriptions and incorporate critical analysis of your organisation's preparedness and response capabilities.

Learning Outcomes Assessed

- Critically analyse state and federal policy related to the response to a terrorism-related attack
- Develop an understanding of contemporary terrorist organisations' ideologies and prevalence in Australia
- Operationalise a medical response plan to a terrorism-related attack based on critical elements of specific attack modalities.

2 Use case scenario.

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Objective: This assessment is an opportunity to be creative and to speculate how a terrorist organisation would use emerging technologies to conduct an attack. However, the assessment must be grounded in reality and point to contemporary evidence of the use cases of emerging technologies and innovation by terrorist organisations.

Requirements:

Provide a speculative use case scenario of how a currently existing terrorist organisation might use an emerging technology in a terrorist attack. The chosen terrorist organisation must be currently active in Australia or your country of origin. Consider the chosen organisation's ideology, goals and capabilities as a foundation for target selection and attack capabilities. Consider that an attack might consist of multiple modalities and could be conducted in phases or stacks. For example, a vehicle ramming might be followed up with a stabbing spree like the 2017 London Bridge attack. Discuss the implications of these technologies in attacks and potential pitfalls for first responders during the immediate aftermath of a terrorist incident. Briefly assess the readiness of current state and federal policies to address the challenges posed by technologically-driven attacks and propose actionable strategies to enhance first responders' preparedness and response capabilities as they relate to the attack methods you have chosen to consider. Support your analysis with concrete examples and references, highlighting the intersection of emerging technologies and the implications for those on the front lines of counter-terrorism medicine efforts.

3 Use case scenario response plan.

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Objective: Consider Assessment two and the hypothetical terror attack.

Develop a comprehensive medical response plan for the hypothetical terrorism-related attack, considering critical elements specific to the attack modalities you described in the Assessment two submission.

Requirements:

Use your current state policy for response to mass casualty incidents as a framework for your plan. Outline the key components of your plan, including the coordination of medical resources, support agencies, and communication strategies to ensure an effective and timely response. Your plan must align with the critical elements described in your Assessment two essay submission.

A critical element in the context of this assessment is a feature of the hypothetical attack you described in assessment two. For instance, the critical elements of the Paris attacks of November 2015 are:

- Simultaneous coordinated assault by multiple attack cells.
- Use of explosive devices to target civilians and funnel them towards secondary attacks.
- Small arms attack followed by a hostage-taking.

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre \(ALC\) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest

If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help

If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work

Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
