Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Student Feedback.

Feedback

Some misalignments between case studies and learning material in class.

Recommendation

Review learning material and case studies to ensure the topics are aligned.

Feedback from Student Feedback.

Great use of a variety of learning approaches, such as lectures, case studies, group discussion and in-class activities to engage students.

Recommendation

Maintain the high level of teaching and learning and provide support to academic staff where they may need assistance to provide prompt feedback to students and engage students in class.

Feedback from Student Feedback.

Provide pre-recorded lectures and tutorials for DST students and to those students that potentially miss classes.

Recommendation

Recorded lectures are no longer a requirement (post-COVID); however, DST students need additional support. It is worthwhile considering developing a series of videos for lectures and tutorials for DST students. Recording live lectures is not advisable due to logistical challenges and student privacy (for subsequent terms), so this will require a budget in order to develop professional video collateral (which will need updating with the PMBOK guide or unit material changes).

Feedback

Provide formal and structured Zoom or MS Teams drop-in sessions to DST Students.

Recommendation

Currently, there are no formal drop-in sessions, and while many DST students do not seek this level of support, there are times when such support is required. This level of support will require drop-on sessions to be organised in the evenings (as most DST students work during the day). Implementing such a recommendation will improve the DST learning experience; however, implementing this recommendation will have resource implications. Another option could be to livestream lectures on each campus and allow DST students to join if possible. However, this will require that lectures be delivered in spaces with such technical capabilities.
