General Information

Overview

This unit is designed to equip you with the analytic skills necessary to carry out advanced applied research. You will develop a toolbox of practical skills that will allow you to undertake qualitative and quantitative research as part of your undergraduate and/or professional career/s in psychology, research, business, government, community development, education, and beyond. The unit builds on earlier research methods units in psychology (PSYC11012 and PSYC12048). You will be introduced to advanced statistical techniques, as well as how to analyse and interpret quantitative data using industry-standard statistical software packages. You will also continue to develop your skills in qualitative research methods and build your abilities in research interviewing, thematic analysis and reporting of qualitative data, how to build rapport and trust with participants, and how to be self-aware and reflexive when conducting qualitative research.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE, peer review

Feedback

Students appreciated the passion and empathy showed by the lecturer who taught the quantitative modules, and enjoyed how they introduced humour into statistics teaching.

Recommendation

Teaching staff will continue to foster an engaging and empathic learning environment for students trying to master advanced research methods.

Feedback from SUTE, personal reflection.

Feedback

Some students wanted simpler and more accessible explanations for some topic areas.

Recommendation

Simplify, where possible, explanations of concepts and introduce other methods (e.g., step-by-step sheets) to improve student comprehension.

Feedback from SUTE, personal reflection.

Feedback

Update some of the quantitative teaching materials.

Recommendation

Replace on Moodle any data analysis examples drawn from an older textbook with those from the latest textbook.
