General Information

Overview

In this unit you will examine the relationships between cultural contexts and human behaviour. You will gain understanding of the similarities and differences in behaviour as influenced by various cultures, particularly perspectives of First Nations Peoples. You will learn about key cross-cultural theories, common research methods used in cross-cultural psychology and examine how these are relevant in research and applied settings. In this unit you will learn how to apply your psychological knowledge and skills in a manner that is culturally appropriate and sensitive to the diversity of others.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Student unit evaluations, informal student feedback

Students commented that the use of guest lecturers sometimes made the unit and its content feel disjointed.

Recommendation

Unit scheduling and content will be reviewed to ensure coherence in the content being presented.

Feedback from Unit coordinator reflections

Feedback

Some pre-recorded lectures recorded by guest lecturers in 2022 make reference to particular dates or issues that date the videos.

Recommendation

Pre-recorded lectures will be reviewed and replaced with new videos or live lectures to ensure content is current.
