General Information

Overview

The ability to communicate effectively in a variety of formats with diverse individuals and groups is an essential skill for professionals such as psychologists which involve working with people. This unit will provide you with practical skills for effective communication, including interviewing and active listening skills. You will learn how different modes of communicating can be used for different audiences (professional, academic, peers, the general population, specific communities). You will reflect on your ongoing development of communication skills and how these apply to future work or study.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

Provide more resources in addition to the existing recorded presentations.

Recommendation

Provide more resources such as articles and links to relevant websites.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

The first and third linked assessments felt repetitive.

Recommendation

Review these two assessments. Make the differences between them in identifying short-term (Assessment 1) and then long-term (Assessment 3) skill development clearer.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

In Assessment 2 (demonstrating interview skills), consider also measuring the skills of the Interviewee, not just the Interviewer.

Recommendation

Broaden Assessment 2 so that the Interviewee's communication skills are also assessed.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

There was confusion as to how many peer feedback sheets were required to be submitted as it varied depending on group size.

Recommendation

Clarify the number of peer feedback sheets required to be submitted.
