General Information

Overview

The concept of wellbeing is central to Positive Psychology and it has been explored across many disciplines, cultures and spiritual traditions. In this unit, you will take a critical approach to cross-disciplinary, cross-cultural and spiritual theories and research on wellbeing. Through this exploration you will develop a holistic understanding of wellbeing concepts and practices. You will gain an understanding of how wellbeing is determined in different cultural and spiritual settings and across a range of academic disciplines and the implications for Positive Psychology.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator's observations.

The inclusion of First Nations' knowledges in the unit content was well received and many students engaged with this material in rich and nuanced ways.

Recommendation

Unit Coordinator will continue to revise, review and enhance the First Nations' knowledges in the unit materials.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator's observations.

Feedback

Students continue to engage with the assessments exploring their own and other culture's perspectives on wellbeing in ways that demonstrate good critical thinking and positive change.

Recommendation

Unit Coordinator will continue to revise and review unit material to support growth in critical thinking in relation to culture.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator's observations.

Some students taking this unit have underdeveloped research and writing skills which can impact their understanding of assessment tasks.

Recommendation

Unit Coordinator to request the Academic Learning Centre to provide a tutorial on research and writing skills and how to understand assessment tasks.
