General Information

Overview

In this unit, you will examine interconnected factors and complex systems that impact wellbeing and resilience at an individual and societal level. At the individual level, you will examine the interplay between mental processes, emotions, and physiology, and assess how to positively influence these areas. You will also evaluate the importance of factors such as sleep, nutrition and diet, exercise, social support, fun, play, and creativity. At a societal level, you will evaluate the impact on wellbeing and resilience of factors such as education, health systems, societal norms and values, and the impact of built and natural environments. Within this interconnected factors framework, you will draw on evidence-based research, tools, approaches, and models, to promote wellbeing and resilience interventions.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

While students valued assessment variety, some felt overwhelmed by multiple unfamiliar writing styles in the same unit.

Recommendation

Provide additional exemplars and guidance to support students learning new formats.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

Some students felt the weekly content was too heavy in volume, and questioned the recency of some resources. They suggested use of more efficient formats such as images, flowcharts, and mind maps to show interconnectedness of ideas.

Recommendation

The teaching team will revisit the unit content to investigate avenues for contemporary updates, streamlining and incorporating visual summaries.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

Some students raised discrepancies around scheduled tutorials and the online planner, which created some confusion.

Recommendation

Check for alignment with University scheduling systems, and ensure up-to-date details are communicated with students at the start of term.
