General Information

Overview

In this unit, students build comprehensive understanding of teachers' pedagogical roles in the teaching of religious concepts and understandings through the use of scripture. They build professional knowledge of interpretive approaches to religious foundational texts that make their meaning accessible to and relevant for contemporary learners. Students reflect on the guidance provided by official Church documents to apply reading frameworks that situate texts within their historical and social context and acknowledge the literary approaches used by the original authors to convey Christian messages that underpin the religion curriculum in schools. Students design resources and select and justify teaching strategies for use in classroom contexts as the basis for promoting learners' understandings and inclusive access to the meaning of narrative texts that explain religious experience and beliefs.
