General Information

Overview

In this unit, you will explore, synthesise and apply the fundamentals of the scientific method. You will develop skills in scientific communication beyond reading and writing - through a series of seminars, lectures and self-guided tasks students will learn appropriate manipulation of mathematical and statistical data as well as data presentation. You will enhance your knowledge and understanding of a range of fundamental scientific concepts and consider issues relating to ethics, experimentation and professional practice. Finally, through conducting your own research activity, you will learn how to develop a research framework and apply critical thinking to solve complex problems.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE feedback

It was noted that some pre-recorded lecture content need updating as they reference COVID lockdowns and accommodations for such interruptions.

Recommendation

The lecture content has been scheduled for updating for the 2025 offering, following an update of the unit structure and delivery completed in 2024.

Feedback from In-person, email, and Moodle feedback

Feedback

Students appreciated the ability to determine their own topic of study for the experimental practical work in the unit, noting that the frequent one-on-one support offered by the teaching staff helped give them confidence to complete the work.

Recommendation

Maintain the structure of self-determination of the student experiment, with frequent ad hoc support outside of scheduled lecture and tutorial times.
