General Information

Overview

In this unit, you will study aspects of language form, content, and use to develop an understanding of morphology, syntax, semantics, and pragmatics. You will learn how these subsystems of language help us to understand and express meaning in communication and will apply your learning to analyse English words and sentences. You will study how people acquire language, and how language varies across individuals, communities, social environments, and cultures.

Assessment Grading

This is a graded unit: your overall grade will be calculated from the marks or grades for each assessment task, based on the relative weightings shown in the table above. You must obtain an overall mark for the unit of at least 50%, or an overall grade of 'pass' in order to pass the unit. If any 'pass/fail' tasks are shown in the table above they must also be completed successfully ('pass' grade). You must also meet any minimum mark requirements specified for a particular assessment task, as detailed in the 'assessment task' section (note that in some instances, the minimum mark for a task may be greater than 50%). Consult the University's Grades and Results Policy for more details of interim results and final grades.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE

Students requested additional readings be set from the textbook.

Recommendation

It is recommended that the speech pathology team consider including both journal articles and textbook readings across the topics covered in the unit.

Feedback from SUTE

The recorded lecture content and practical tutorials were engaging and supported learning.

Recommendation

It is recommended that the speech pathology team continue to include both recorded lecture content and weekly face-to-face tutorials that provide opportunity for students to apply and practice the concepts taught in lectures.

Unit Learning Outcomes
